PROCEDURE – ELECTION OF A CANDIDATE

The Award Committee shall elect an awardee in the following manner The ballot for the election shall include the entire slate of qualified nominees

Each Committee member must cast a secret ballot by clearly designating three separate choices, naming one his/her first choice, another his/her second choice and another his/her third choice. However, a committee member may abstain from voting altogether. (In other words a committee member cannot vote for just one candidate, they have to vote for all or none.)

Each nominee shall be awarded (3) three points for each first-choice designation on each ballot, (2) two points for each second-choice designation, and (1) one point for each third-choice designation.

If there is only one nominee, each member will either give a first choice (3) point designation or abstain.

If there are only two nominees, each member will give each candidate either a first choice (3) point designation or a (2) point second choice designation or abstain.

For more than two nominees there shall be awarded (3) points for first choice designation on the ballot, (2) points for second choice designation and (1) point for third choice designation

The committee shall make the award to only that candidate who has received a total of twenty-three (23) points.

The results shall be announced to the members of the committee after each ballot has been tabulated.

If no candidate shall have received a sufficient number of election points to receive the award on the first ballot, the slate shall be reduced to the three candidates with the highest vote totals and another ballot taken in the same manner as set forth above.

Two additional ballots may be cast with the slate restricted to the three highest candidates on both ballots.

In the event of a tie, where two candidates receive equal amount of required points, the committee shall have the power to break said tie by giving the award to the candidate receiving the greatest number of first place votes.

If the tie is not broken after the third ballot no additional ballots may be taken.

It is not mandatory that a recipient is named every year even if there are candidates.

Immediately upon selection of a winning candidate, the Chair of the Committee shall report a decision to the National President and the Board of Directors.

4) AWARD PRESENTATION

- The award will be presented to the awardee in accordance with the guidelines set forth by the Convention Advisory Committee guidelines.
